

MANITOU RIPPLES 1942

Harold Loren Emmons

May 28, 1942

The story of democracy in Rochester High School—how it works in our every day school life among students and faculty — in classrooms—at our club meetings—in athletic contests — in work and play. To the boys from Rochester High School who are serving in all branches of our armed forces, fighting to preserve our democratic way of life, we dedicate this . . .

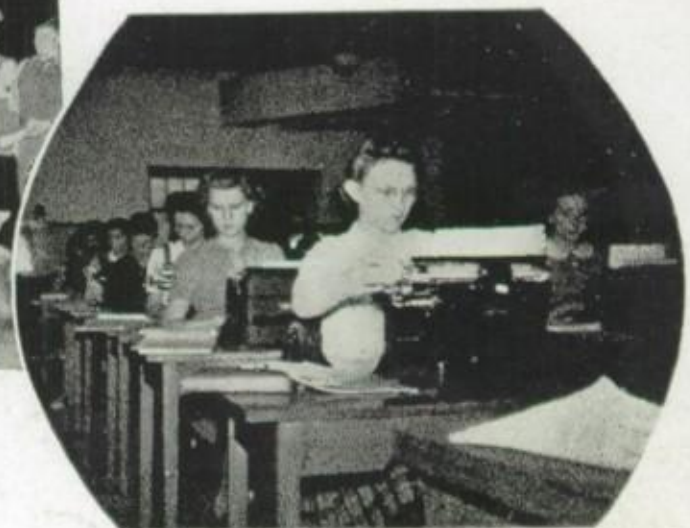

The Manitou Ripples of 1942

Democracy in Action at

As freshmen we enroll in high school and choose our own course for the coming year. We choose our own assembly programs at the meeting of the Student Council. We students develop skills which are to be of great help to us in later years. We also have a library which we may use for studying or reading. In our health classes, we are taught the rules of health; our periods of physical development are spent in the gym under capable supervision; while in our government classes we make a study of form of government.

The School

In classrooms we are allowed free and unlimited discussion of the lesson. We have and voice our own opinions, criticize constructively, and suggest solutions for problems about the school. Democracy is a practical thing in Rochester High School.

MEET THE FACULTY

Every democratic institution must have capable leaders. The faculty of Rochester High School are the students' leaders and advisers, and they are willing and able to assist the students whenever they desire. The faculty, however, helps us to create within ourselves an independent attitude which is essential in a democratic institution such as our school.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

In the fall of 1938, a large group of slightly green freshmen entered the doors of R. H. S. and soon became loyal students. They first gained recognition by being well represented on the honor roll.

They became organized as a class in the fall of 1940, choosing Miss Barrett as sponsor. The leaders of the class were Jean Emmons, president; Selena Peterson, vice-president; Jean Gohn, secretary; Clyde Bick, treasurer. The following spring the class presented "Hobgoblin House." On May 23 they entertained the seniors at the prom held at the Colonial Hotel.

When they were seniors, new officers were chosen—Jim Shelton, president; Jean Emmons, vice-president; Betty Jennens, secretary; Clyde Bick, treasurer. Their play, "Laughing Gas," was given October 21. Several of the students participated in commercial contests. Their high school career was completed by three important events: a prom given by the juniors, baccalaureate, May 24, and commencement, May 27.

Many scholarships were earned during the senior year. Jim Shelton was valedictorian. Olive Jane Koomler won the D. A. R. award.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

In September, 1939, slightly over 100 students entered R. H. S. The class has made a good deal of progress, having scholars on the honor roll, furnishing several boys for sports activities, sponsoring school dances, and entertaining students in the commercial contests.

They organized in the fall of 1941, choosing Miss Bushong as their class sponsor. Their officers were Joe Sparks, president; Jack Killion, vice-president; Doyne Hoover, secretary; Mary E. Moore, treasurer.

The class presented a very successful play, "Spring Fever," on April 14. They honored the seniors at the prom, held May 22, at the New West Side Hotel.

Activities

In Rochester High, as in the whole United States, we have been developing a democratic society. Just as in the national government, where certain organizations are important, here, too, groups exist for the common good of all. On the next few pages we present to you a picture of the activities which take place in Rochester High School.

THE HI-Y CLUB

Two treasure hunts, an alumni banquet, an act at the fall festival, two dances along with the regular supper meetings kept the Hi-Y Club very busy this year.

The officers were: Joe Stansbury, president; Dick King, vice-president; Leo Feece, secretary; Bob Ross-Shannon, treasurer. Mr. Purdue acted as sponsor.

Bi-monthly Monday-night bean suppers were held in the Home Ec rooms. The outstanding meeting of the year was the Alumni Bean Supper. After the suppers, the new scums were given the honor (?) of massaging the dishes. Reverend McGee, Mr. Rankin, Mr. Burgett, Reverend Ross-Shannon, and Captain Minter gave informative talks at some of the suppers.

The Girl Reserves Club began the year under the competent leadership of Miss Adams, sponsor, and Olive Jane Koomler, president.

At Thanksgiving under the direction of Harriett Hogue, the club members donated and distributed food baskets. The club helped purchase the school tree for the assembly at Christmas. Sponsoring the Christmas school dance was another activity.

Besides the twice-a-month community suppers in the Home Ec room the G. R.'s participated in the Mother and Daughter's Tea, Father and Daughter Banquet, and the annual Kid party for new Girl Reserves.

The year's officers were: Olive Jane Koomler, president; Marjorie Hight, vice-president; Frances McGuire, secretary; Mary E. Moore, treasurer.

STATION R. H. S.

The students of R. H. S. have a voice; one that reveals the goings on around school and prints those things which are of interest to the students. This voice is Station R. H. S., our school newspaper. It is hoped that working on this publication will develop an interest in journalism, an ever expanding field in this great democratic world where freedom of speech and press is as free as the air.

ROCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL BAND

The band, consisting of forty-four members under the direction of Mr. Fiscus, was engaged in unceasing activity during the past year. The officers were as follows: Student Director, Leo Feece; Assistant Student Director, Charles Spohn; Drum Major, Selena Peterson; Treasurer, Lois Herendeen; Librarian, Donna Castleman.

A dream of several years length came true when the new band uniforms were ordered. After some delay, they arrived much to the joy of all the band members.

Charles Spohn and Dick Ross placed first in first division in the state contest. On March twentieth the band went to the band clinic where their weaknesses were pointed out to them. The band also made a fine showing at the district contest.

GLEE CLUB

The Glee Club, one of the most outstanding organizations in school, is composed of twenty-nine girls and is under the direction of Miss Edith Thomson.

During the year the Glee Club sang for different clubs and school assembly programs. Trios and quartets from this group furnished music for several civic organizations. They finished their year by singing at the baccalaureate service and commencement exercises.

Twelve members of the Glee Club graduated this spring.

ORCHESTRA

The high school orchestra has added another extremely busy year to its history under the leadership of Miss Thomson.

This year the organization has nineteen members.

Leo Feece and Jim Shelton have just completed their sixth year in the orchestra.

Activities for the year consisted of playing at the R. E. M. C. Meeting at the Char-Bell Theatre and for an assembly program. The group concluded the year by playing at Commencement.

The class of forty-two chose "Laughing Gas" as the play to demonstrate their dramatic ability. It was presented by the seniors October 21 at Whitmer Gymnasium.

The production, a melodramatic farce in three acts, proved to be as terrifying in some parts as it was humorous in others. The ending was happy and definitely romantic.

The Junior Class gave the three act comedy, “Spring Fever,” Tuesday, April 14, at Whitmer Gym. Miss Mary Bushong, class sponsor, assisted by Miss Ohlrogge directed the play.

This amusing farce, which centered around Mrs. Spangler’s Boarding House for Brookfield College students concerns Howard Brant and his attempt to finish his Zoology term paper necessary for his graduation. The other roomers lent confusion to the situation. The play was excellently cast and well presented.

A t h l e t i c s

Loyalty is an essential factor in any democratic institution. Loyalty to our school is shown in the fine way the student body gets behind the athletic teams and supports them. The boys on the teams play hard to defend the honor of our school; but in defeat, as in victory, they are the best of sportsmen.

THE ZEBRAS

The Rochester Zebras again, as in the past two years, had a fifty-fifty season. Including the Wabash tournament and the sectional tournament, the Zebras triumphed in twelve games and went down in defeat in the other twelve. The Zebras defeated Peru and Wabash to annex the Wabash Invitational Tourney, making this their third year in a row to win these invitational tournaments. Their most successful trip this year was a journey 150 miles from home to defeat the Columbus Bulldogs 35 to 33 in an overtime game. The heartbreaker of the season was in the sectional at Winamac when the Zebras failed to hit the hoop and were downed by the Fulton Bulldogs 23 to 13. The Lylemen this year scored 677 points to their opponents 729.

This year's squad was composed of two seniors, Bob Ross-Shannon and Ward McCarty and six juniors, Dick King, Joe Stansbury, Jack Killion, Bill Kriegbaum, Tom DuBois, and Joe Callahan. Also during part of the year and sectional time Don Reed and Wayne Reddinger were borrowed from the Colts.

The free throw award this year went to Dick "Stinky" King making 51 out of 77 tries for 66 2/10 per cent average.

We would also like to pay due praise to a boy who did not play this year, but he kept the basketball equipment and material in ship-shape condition. This boy is Larry Braman, student manager.

GIRLS ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Girls Athletic Association completed its third successful year as a club organized to build the body and mind in character, sportsmanship, and co-operation. The national emergency has brought to our attention the importance of healthful living. To promote good health is another purpose of G. A. A.

The officers for 1942 were: Frances McGuire, president; Harriett Hogue, vice president; Mary E. Moore, secretary; Betty Jennens, treasurer; and Miss Hoopengardner, sponsor.

A great honor came to the club when Frances McGuire became Rochester's first State award winner.

The girls receive points by participating in organized sports which are played under Miss Hoopengardner's supervision.

SENIOR CLASS WILL

We, the seniors of 1942, hereby issue this document as our last will and testament.

We hand back to the beloved faculty all the knowledge that they have taught us; thus they will be able to carry on in future years.

We do will and bequeath to the jolly juniors our struggling efforts to publish this annual.

We do will and bequeath to the slumbering sophomores our astounding dignities and good behavior.

We do will and bequeath to the Freshies our superior ingenuity in out-witting the faculty.

I, Joanna Ault, do will and bequeath my talkative disposition to Doyne Hoover.

I, Clyde Bick, do will and bequeath my ability to handle class funds to Mary E. Moore.

I, Richard Booher, do will and bequeath my height of 6 feet 4 inches to "Shorty" Van Duyne.

I, Charles Boyce, do will and bequeath my smoothness (??) to Bob Kaywood, who certainly can use it.

I, Calvin Braman, do will and bequeath my avoirdupois to Flossie Hounshell.

I, Lou Jean Briggs, do will and bequeath my achievements in dramatics to Paul Henriott.

I, Grace Brown, do will and bequeath my taste for fine clothes to anyone with the time and patience to take care of them.

I, Jean Brubaker, do will and bequeath my interest in "out-of-town" boys to June Barts.

I, Charles Burgett, do will and bequeath my eternal brief case to Vernon Jenkins who could use some of its contents.

I, Frank Carruthers, will and bequeath my interest in mathematics to Don Reed.

I, Dean Carr, will and bequeath my interest in 4-H livestock to Bill Huxley.

I, Betty Castle, do will and bequeath my astonishing dimples to Mr. Purdue. (Why?)

I, Donna Castleman, will and bequeath my wide acquaintanceship with the inhabitants (??) of the surrounding communities to Ellen Bunnell.

I, Ildia Cook, will and bequeath my spontaneous giggles to Jack Killion who does not like giggling girls.

I, Shirley Cooper, will and bequeath my impulsive outbursts in class to Evelyn Van Duyne.

I, Arthur Craig, will and bequeath my faithfulness to R. H. S. to the student body.

I, Bill Daggy, will and bequeath my Superman physique to Jordan Blumenthal.

I, Martha Day, do will and bequeath my ability to engage in any conversation to the public speaking class.

I, George Deardorff, will and bequeath my exacting efficiency to my brother Bob in order to keep it in the family.

I, Jean Emmons, will and bequeath my executive ability to Hi-Y president-elect Tom Dubois.

I, Harold Emmons, will and bequeath my amazing ability as a mathematician to all coming freshmen.

I, Betty Evans, will and bequeath my responsive friendliness to Peggy Barrett.

I, Pearl Fancil, will and bequeath my striding walk to Delores Helt.

I, Leo Feece, will my technique with a baton (?) to Charles Spohn—he may need it.

I, Lucy Gilbert, will and bequeath my keys to the candy box to the burglar who broke into the office.

I, Jean Gohn, will my blond hair to Beezer "Peroxide" Bennett who has recently "dyed."

I, Virginia Graham, will and bequeath my sensitive disposition to Bob (drug store) Brown.

I, Arphelia Hamlett, will and bequeath my name to anyone who will pronounce it correctly.

I, Ilo Helt, will and bequeath my "weeness" to Dick Ross.

I, Marjorie Hight, will and bequeath my willingness to co-operate to Susan Elkins.

I, Hugh Hunneshagen, will and bequeath my argumentativeness to Bob Glassley.

I, Betty Jennens, will and bequeath my "picking" on basketball players to Coach Lyle.

I, Mary Kindig, will and bequeath my basketball ability to Joe Stansbury.

I, Olive Jane Koomler, will and bequeath my "shorthand" to Harriett Hogue.

I, Mary Lamb, will and bequeath my long hair and fingernails to Sally Shafer.

I, Dustin Loman, will and bequeath my knowledge of manual training to Duane Gohn.

I, Helen Maglecic, will my neatness to Kathleen McDougale although she is in no great need of it.

I, Ward McCarty, will and bequeath my handsome features to Russell Thompson.

I, Frances McGuire, will and bequeath my athletic ability to Betty Leckrone.

I, Donnabelle Mikesell, will and bequeath my ability to get my work in on time to Bob Newcomb.

I, Martha Miller, will my prompt correspondence to army camps to someone without "writer's cramp."

I, Bill Myers, will my "red-top" to Jane Ann "Scarlet" Smith.

I, Dean Neher, will and bequeath my curly locks to Lawrence Hayes and Fred Long—they want them so badly.

I, Dick Newell, will and bequeath my superfluous pep and energy to Dick King.

I, Bob Neighbor, will and bequeath my mischievousness to Mr. Van Lue's eighth period class.

I, Harold Nightlinger, will my musical ability to Malcolm Kestner.

I, Selena Peterson, will my tiny waistline to Bob Burns. (Wonder why?)

I, Marcele Reddick, will my typing ability to Joe Callahan who will need it.

I, Betty Reed, will my "bobbed" hair to long-tressed Janis Reed.

I, Bob Ross-Shannon, will and bequeath my reputation as the class clown to Bob McKelvey.

I, James Shelton, will and bequeath my leadership ability to the president of the class of 1943.

I, Weldon Sherrard, will and bequeath my "forced landings" to anyone who wants a thrill out of life. (You're welcome.)

I, Devon Shuman, will and bequeath my ability to "get along" with Miss Fultz to Bill Wilhoit.

I, Hadden Stewart, will my editorship of Manitou Ripples to someone who has plenty of time on his or her hands.

I, Arthur Swango, will my annual mid-winter swim to Eldon Shultz—he wouldn't have to cut such a large hole in the ice.

I, Milton Thacker, will my fiery red coat to Joe Sparks to match his painted saddle shoes.

I, Dick Tobey, will and bequeath my school girl complexion to Maxine Enyart.

I, Bill Willard, will and bequeath my dazzling smile to Dick Clary.

I, Margery Wilson, will and bequeath my reserved manner to Margaret "Maggy" Wilhoit.

I, Ida Young, will and bequeath my witty remarks to Jane Sisson.

I, Dick Young, will my nickname of "Gabby" to Jack "Daffy" Davis.

I, Robert Zellers, will my habitual back seats to Dick Wilson who has his share of front seats.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, WE have hereunto subscribed the hand and seal of the said class, this 29th day of May in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and forty-two (1942).

Ye Class of '42.

The foregoing instrument was duly subscribed, published, sealed and declared by the above named class, as and for its last will and testament, in the presence of the class and one another, hereunto subscribe our names as attesting witnesses, this 29th day of May, 1942.
